

WHISKEY PEDDLING PRESENTS PUZZLE

Authorities Strive to Combat Bootleggers in Clever Stunts.

How to stop the bootlegger. That question is bugging the authorities, for if it is admitted there is considerable bonded liquor and home-brew booze leaking into Rock county. A small percent is believed made in the country from stills and contraptions which steam out the fluid that quenches and sometimes kills.

The bootlegger coming from Kenosha who was caught and fined in Beloit recently, informed the police that he could sell all his manufactured goods at $5 a quart. The moonshine was great and the only obstacle was the ever-present fear of being caught by the state or federal authorities.

Just have nerve.

Speed, daring, deception, invention, camouflage and cunning, combined with nerve, go to make up the role of the modern bootlegger. There is no secret that booze is coming into Rock county from Kenosha and Waupaca. Milwaukee also furnishes a supply for this district. The transportation problem is the one bothering the peddler of moonshine. He can find buyers but it is the getting of the intoxicants to the buyer that worries the bootlegger. He's a crook the minute he starts to make the stuff when he offers it for sale and when he sells it, and all the time he must be dodging the law.

Shipped in Cans.

Every known means of transportation is being utilized in this country and other districts. The condition is not much better here as in northern states along the boundary, where the bonded whisky is being shipped over the border.

Even a funeral cortege has been used as camouflage to cover up shipments of whisky in aasket from one district to another. One man in Virginia, Milwaukee, was caught carrying the stuff across the border in a carpet springer.

Authorities here have found some of the clever methods. The suitcase mode of transportation is still the most popular. This will soon prove too dangerous a method to carry the "goods" and more unique methods will be used.

Other Unique Methods.

Autos and motor trucks are used to a great extent in Illinois and Wisconsin. Cans filled with liquor are "old gas." Fuel tanks are fitted up with false bottoms, a compartment of which is filled with the white lightning. Jugs have been found, having two parts, the top for legitimate liquor and the bottom for booze. Kenosha whisky is known to have been brought into Rock county in gasoline cans and then bottled to be sold.

To make things more difficult the authorities here realize that they will have to make the lot of the bootlegger both costly and hard. Along with the bootlegger, the federal agents and state men have also got to contend with the unscrupulous physician who fakes prescriptions and releases them for other than medical purposes.

ELECTION CLOUDS LOOM IN COUNTY

Supervisors, School Men, Clerks and Assessors to be Chosen

Janesville—Registration of students at the University of Wisconsin during the registration period for the second semester, February 10-12, was heavy despite the general depression and inverted conditions prevailing.

That the number attending the university the second semester will compare favorably with that of the first semester is the opinion of the university officials, although no definite figures can be quoted as yet, since records are not available.

The second semester, the university will be private to set out blinds and feel the lake at any point of its border. With those two measures in effect any citizen could have means of reaching the water and would be privileged to hunt from the shore or take advantage of the fishing either from the banks of the stream or lake.

Supervisors Up.

The county election interest centers on the supervisors, when the 44 centers come up for re-election. The entire board will be up for either the political scalping knife or endorsement.

It is understood that the Rock County Farm Bureau has quit sharpening the axe against supervisors who voted against the county agricultural agent. For a time they ground the axe in every supervisor's hand before the election, whereupon the supervisors voted for the abolishing of the office.

The farm bureau has taken action to bring the county board and the bureau organization into closer and more co-operative relationship.

Past State Officers.

Assessors, township chairmen, village and city clerks will be on the ballot.

The voters will also select a county superintendent of schools.

The state superintendent is also up for election.

The attorney general has notified County Clerk Howard W. Lee that separate ballot boxes for women's votes will not be necessary at the April election. Under the nineteenth amendment women voted in separate boxes for the school offices.

Two justices of the supreme court will probably be on the ballot.

FARMERS ACTIVE IN FORWARD STEPS

Consolidated Schools and Lime Stone Crushing Seriously Considered.

Frank S. Hyer, president of the Whitewater normal school, will speak at the meeting to be held by the Community club of Johnsonville in the Club room, at 8 o'clock, tomorrow night. The meeting is to open at 7:30 o'clock, according to Frank Arnold, chairman.

Consolidated schools as a means of improving rural education is to be discussed during the meeting. J. S. Miller, from the Rockford Harlen park consolidated school, will also speak. Persons interested in consolidated schools are urged to attend. See Story, Crusher.

Fifty Rock county farmers witnessed a demonstration of the machine obtained by the Rock County Farm Bureau for crushing limestone, which was held in Plymouth township yesterday afternoon. The majority of the farmers formed an opinion larger machine capable of more speed obtained.

A machine is desired which will turn out three tons per hour of pulverized lime. The machine on trial is to give another demonstration when a larger power pulley to increase the speed of the crushers will be used. Power was furnished by a tractor.

In order to have limestone for spring work, most farmers living near a railroad station are buying their lime direct. This policy is being urged by the county agricultural agent, R. T. Chasco, rather than wait for the crushers.

Cows will be the film stars of a movie to be held in Beloit next Saturday afternoon, when Mrs. L. K. Downes will speak to milk producers in the Baptist church. The meeting is to start at 2 o'clock. The movie and lecture is being put on by milk producers and Farm Bureau members from Newark and the two townships, W. J. Ladd and William Wetland are the town chairmen.

Judges are now completing the prize list of the essay winners in the milk publicity campaign undertaken in Rock county by the Farm Bureau and the distributors. Announcement of the winners will be made this week.

Eastern Tobacco Men Try New Methods Here

Gradual change in the handling of raw tobacco is taking place in Southern Wisconsin with the result that the individual warehouseman and buyer is giving way to big concerns operating from the east. This appears to be more true this year than ever before. In the past, the preliminary drying process in farm houses such as Lancaster, Pa., for sweating, sorting and completion of the process, this is an experiment that is being watched by the old timers in the business with considerable interest. The claim in this section is that the long trip in box cars will heat the tobacco to such a degree that it may be spoiled by the time it is unloaded at the eastern destination. As many as 50 cars have been shipped off in this manner during this month.

WHERE WILSON WILL LIVE AFTER MARCH 4

The home of Henry P. Fairbanks, purchased by President Wilson.

Numerous rumors as to where President Wilson will reside after he leaves the White House March 4 have been ended by the announcement that the palatial home of Henry P. Fairbanks at 2304 S. street, northeast, Washington, has been purchased by the president. The price is said to have been $150,000. The house is in the fashionable du Pont circle. CITY CLEANS HOUSE ON SMALL SCALE

As soon as spring is definitely upon us the annual cleanup in Janesville will be made to wipe away the effects of the dirt and trash which accumulates during the winter.

Due to the mild winter and the weather some cleaning can be done now. Senator Chapman, Mr. Leigh, Mr. Wilson, state that the merchants would aid greatly in helping the cleanup on the streets in the business section which is going on now. If they would clean their sidewalk in front of their stores.

Street Commissioner Thomas McKune had a crew of five men at work today cleaning up the business district. The big street flusher, which blossomed forth yesterday in a new coat of paint and shiny overhauling, has been a burr after pouring out 54 loads of water.

"This is the fourth bearing burned out since we have had the truck," said Mr. McKune. "Mechanics tell me the only thing to do is to get a new engine for the flusher part of the machine of a type similar to that used to drive the truck. I may have to ask the council to do this."

RECOMMENDS PAY FOR PLANE DAMAGE

Postmaster Would Have U. S. Compensate Farmer for Injury to Crops.

J. M. Hughulin, farmer of South Janesville, will probably be compensated for the damage done to his sowed field on January 29 when a government mail plane plowed into the late Lieut. W. L. Carroll and Lieut. Wunderlich landed on it.

After a thorough investigation of the damage done by the plane, Postmaster Cunningham, who acts on the regular basis as the superintendent of the mail plane division at Indianapolis, has filed his report for the government to decide the amount of damage done. According to Postmaster Cunningham a plot of ground on Hughulin's field 70 by 80 rods had been torn up by the airplane in its landing and attempt to get out of the mud. A truck with gasoline for the plane also drove 50 rods into the field, tearing the ground up, which had been sown last year with clover, and timothy.

Notices sent out by County Clerk Howard W. Lee to the supervisors are being returned to the post office because they indicate that a majority of the board members are in favor of the special meeting. Full return of the notices is expected by the county clerk by Thursday morning.

THE ARSENAL AT SPRINGFIELD.

This poem by Henry W. Longfellow, many years ago, is a powerful argument for disarmament today.

This is the Arsenal. From floor to ceiling.
Like a huge organ, rise the burnished arms;
But from their silent pipes no anthem pealing.
Startles the village with strange alarms.

Ah! what a sound will rise, how wild and dreary,
When the death-angel touches those swift keys;
What loud lament and dismal Misere
Will mingle with their awful symphonies.

I hear even now the infinite fierce chorus.
The cries of agony, the endless groan,
Which through the ages that have gone before us,
In long reverberations reach our own.

Is it, O man, with such discordant noises,
With such accursed instruments as these,
Thou drownest Nature's sweet and kindly voices,
And jarrest the celestial harmonies?

Were half the power that fills the world with terror.

We've half the wealth bestowed on camps and courts.

Given to redem the human mind from error,

There were no need of arsenals or forts.

The warrior's name would be a name abhorred;
And every nation, that should lift again
Its hand against a brother, on its forehead
Would wear forevermore the curse of Cain!

Down the dark future, through long generations,
The echoing sounds grow fainter and then cease;
And like a bell, with solemn, sweet vibrations,
I hear once more the voice of Christ say,

"Peace!"

Peace! and no longer from its brazen portals
The blast of War's great organ shakes the skies!

But beautiful as sons of the immortals,

The holy melodies of love arise.

THE CITY COUNCIL

One of the duties of the citizen is to aid in every way in securing good candidates for the city council from each of the wards. Under the city charter the council is the most important branch of the Municipal government. It has both to do with the policy and the carrying out of measures. In every ward there should be good men or women in the field. It is not an inviting place and demands sacrifice but if has to be done under the present system. It would be gratifying to see several women candidates in the field this spring.

Congressman Welty and Senator Dial seem to have achieved only a little cheap notoriety over the Landis incident.

THE OCHE MYSTERY, OR THE JAUNDICED DUD.

Nearly three years ago Lawrence, a jeweler of Madison, was killed by a train. After an investigation by the legally constituted authorities, it was so decided. Tuesday a Madison paper gravely announced that Lawrence was killed by a train. For weeks the sort of newspaper "news" that comes from sensationalism gone to seed has dragged the bones of the dead jeweler into the spot light, imagined strange horrors and a wicked conspiracy, introduced an orange diamond of marvelous value and mystic power for evil into the plot, dug a corpse from the grave, induced the young and active district attorney to become a party to the yarn, invested the whole thing with horror and conjecture and innumerable painted the picture in the gory color of the "Murders in the Rue Morgue," cost Dane county a few hundred dollars to investigate the segment of decadent imagination, and finally like a wet firecracker the whole business as it was bound to do, petered out. This is the sort of thing that puts the bar sinister on the name of the newspaper. However, also fortunately, the sort of newspaper that lends itself to this baseless sensation mongering is easily located and can be avoided. The Associated Press carried nothing of the story until the county board of Dane county gave official recognition.

One gathers from the news coming from Kenosha that no shoes are worn there—only boots.

WHY FIRE COST FIVE MILLION DOLLARS IN WISCONSIN.

It cost the state of Wisconsin five million dollars in the last five years to have preventable fires. Of the causes, matches and smoking cost $1,053,000, gasoline and kerosene $380,000, while hot ashes, coals and open fires caused fires that made a loss of $300,000. Defective chimneys and flues started fires that burned up $1,200,000 worth of property.

It does not take a careful reading of the figures and some of the admonitions against carelessness to convince one that the lesson of fire caution and prevention should be learned in youth. These can be given at home as well as at school and a few minutes each week explaining to the growing generation about fire prevention, will aid in saving everywhere, many hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of property.

Fire represents destruction irretrievably—removes forever from the world value in which labor, effort, savings, brain work has been invested.

WHEN IS A LOBBYIST?

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—With three bills introduced into Congress to regulate his operations, and Senators and Representatives denouncing him on the floor of the House, the Washington lobbyist seems to be in for one more of those attacks upon his honor and his salary of which he has already weathered several.

All of these bills propose to control the lobbyist by making him register his name, his salary, his intentions and the name of the organization he represents.

Senator Kenyon seems to base his objection to lobbyists chiefly on the ground that they are a pest. He declares that he cannot get from the street car to his office without being buttonholed. Whether a registered lobbyist would be any less persistent about buttonholing other legislators is questionable.

Well, the next morning was Father's lecture, and we were with Mother. Of course Grandfather was there too, but he was with the other astronomers, I guess. Anyhow, he didn't go with us. And Aunt Hattie didn't go at all. So Mother and I were alone.

We sat back—A long ways back.

I wanted to go up front, real far front—the front seat, if I could get it; and I told Mother so. But she said: "Mercy, no!" and shuddered, and went back two more rows. I found where she was, and got behind a big post.

I guess she was afraid Father would see us, but that's what I wanted.

I wanted him to see us. I wanted him to bring up the middle of his lecture and look down and see right through before him his little girl.

And she that had been the wife of his bosom. Now that would have been what I called thrilling, real thrilling, especially if he jumped or grew red, or white, or stammered, or stopped short, or anything to show that he's seen us—and cared.

I'd have loved that.

But we sat back where Mother wanted to, behind the post. And of course Father never saw us at all.

It was a lovely lecture. Oh, of course it didn't mean to say that I understood it. I didn't. But his voice was fine, and he looked just too grand for anything, with the light on his noble brow, and he used the loveliest big words that I ever heard.

Folks clapped, and looked at each other, and nodded, and one or twice they laughed. And when it was all through they cheered again, harder than ever, and I was so proud of him and I wanted to stand up right there and shout: "He's my father! He's my father!" Just as loud as I could, but, of course, I didn't. I just clapped like the rest; only I wished my hands were big like the man's next to me, so I could have made more noise.

Another man spoke then, a little not much as good as Father, and then it was all over, and everybody wanted to go; and I saw that a lot of folks were crowding down the aisle, and I looked and there was Father right in front of the platform shaking hands with folks.

I looked at Mother then. Her face was all pinky-white, and her eyes were shining, and she said to me: "I guess I'll stay here."

"No, no, I couldn't," I said.

"Run along and come to speak to him; but don't stay. Remember, Mother is walking, and come right back."

I know that that must have been just my eyes that spoke, for I did want to go down there and speak to Father. Oh, I did want to go! And I went, on condition.

He didn't want to go at first. There was a long line of us, and a big fat man was doing a lot of talking to him so we couldn't move at all for a time. Then it came to when I was just three people away from him. And I was looking straight at him.

He saw me then. And, oh, I did love the look that came to his face! It was so surprised and glad, and said: "Oh, I—" in such a perfectly lovely way that I choked all up and wanted to cry. (The idea!)

I guess when I was so glad to see him!

I guess the two folks ahead of me didn't think they got much attention, and the next minute no had drawn me out of the line, and we were both talking at once, and tell-

Chicago, Feb. 16.—Revival of the baseball players bus has found favor with the American association magnates and the plan may be adopted for use throughout that circuit at the closing session of the American association club owners' meeting today. Various other routine league matters remain to be decided, but the suggestion made in a recent statement by Manager Evers of the Cubs, favoring the use of old time caravans to take the players to the grounds and back, is the principal business before the meeting.

TRI-COUNTY BALL LEAGUE PLANNING FOR NEXT SEASON

(By Gazette Correspondent)
Edgerton Feb. 16.—Continuation of the Tri-County baseball league, which had such a successful season last year, is planned for 1921, following a meeting of the managers of the several teams at Madison. Ben Smith, manager of the Edgerton team last year, represented this city. All towns except Middleton will be in the circuit this year. Strength asks to be given Middleton's place. Cities that will have franchises are Mt. Horeb, Madison, Sun Prairie, Waterloo, Lake Mills, Cambridge and Edgerton.

An action meeting will be held in Madison soon, at which time officers will be elected and a scheduled ar-

Seven New Managers Will Lead Major Ball Outfits

New York.—Seven of the 16 clubs in the major leagues, three in the National and four in the American, will take the field for the 1921 campaign under new managers. The opening of nearly every baseball season has one or two new managers, but it is a "rare" time since there has been such a general shakeup among the field generals of the major league clubs.

With all the changes from year to year stand out prominently in the history of baseball service with their respective clubs—Connie Mack of the Philadelphia Athletics and John J. McGraw of the New York Giants. Mack has led the Athletics since they entered the American League in 1901 and has won six pennants and three world championships. McGraw became manager of the Giants in 1902, and like Mack, has but has won the world championship only once.

Will Watch Cobb.

One of the most notable changes is the appointment of Ty Cobb to lead the Detroit Tigers as successor of Hughie Jennings. The latter quit the Tigers after 14 years, during which he won three pennants to become assistant to McGraw. Cobb will do well to be watched closely.

Changes of managers in the National league involve the Chicago, Boston and Philadelphia clubs. Georgia Stelling has given up the manager of the Boston Braves after eight years to become president of the New England league. It is a coincidence that Stelling will be succeeded as manager of the Braves by Fred Mitchell, who was his chief assistant and coach of the team.

Willard Quits Farm
FOR BOOTS AND OIL

Lawrence, Kan., Feb. 16.—The quiet life of the man is no more for Jess Willard, former world champion heavyweight boxer. He announced here Friday that he would follow the plow no more. The oil game and the prize money claim his interests henceforth.

Willard said he would soon establish his home in Los Angeles, Cal.

"I am through with farming. From now on I am an oil man and a prize fighter. I am now going to California to train."

Donovan With Phillips.

The Philadelphia Nationals will be managed next season by Bill Donovan, who will be the third manager since Pat Moran left. Donovan is said to have received an invitation from the Cleveland club for winning the first pennant in the world's champion ship tourney.

McBride Leads Senators.

Another change of managers that ended a long career of leadership on the diamond was that of the Washington club. Clark Griffith, who has become principal owner of the club, turned over the managerial duties to his lieutenant, George McBride, for many years director of the team. Griffith managed the Washington club for nine years and prior to that has served as manager of the Chicago White Sox, the New York Yankees and the Cincinnati club. Griffith now will devote all his time to the executive business of the club of which he is president. McBride began his major league career with Washington in 1905 and played shortstop until a year or two ago.

Jack Duffy, famous outfielder and hitting star for several years ago, will lead the Boston Red Sox as successor of Edward G. Farrow. The latter, who managed the Red Sox three years, winning a pennant and a world's championship, is now business manager of the New York Yankees.

Malone Leads Snakes.
